Pros and Cons of the New Automatic Flag Pilot

Fall 2021 brought the opportunity to pilot a new automatic flag for missing assignments through the Starfish/Canvas integration. Faculty chose their parameters: How many assignments must be late to trigger the flag? How "overdue" do these assignments need to be to trigger the flag? An example of these parameters in action would look like this:

"2+ assignments late (3 days overdue or more)"

Pros: Faculty didn't have to manually keep track of missing assignments, or go through the Canvas grade book to see if students were falling behind.

Cons: Unpublished assignments with due dates (even though not visible to students), and assignments with "no submission" settings are counted towards "missing assignments" once the due date passes.
