

According to Strategic Direction 6 of the Crafton Hills College (CHC) Educational Master Plan (EMP), the college "uses decision making processes that are effective, efficient, transparent, and evidenced-based." At Crafton, committee structures constitute a major component of both planning and decision-making. This report illustrates the results from the Spring 2020 Chairs Council committee self-evaluation, completed by 17 respondents. Responses to each question was voluntary.

Questions 2-5, prompted respondents to indicate the number of years they have served on the committee they are evaluating, whether they plan to serve on the committee again next year, the number of other CHC committees on which they serve, and their role at the college.
