All the taglines are extremely goofy and cheezy.
Do work part time but I am also a new student in Crafton Hills College.
I actually like them all, except for "We open doors." It feels to me that this reads that CHC is the one opening the doors, and it leaves the students out of the action. I think all of the other taglines have a sense that we all work together for the outcome.
I honestly wasn't a fan of any of them. None of them feel unique to our campus.
I love that "Your Tomorrow Starts Today" gives the student empowerment to start their journey at Crafton!
I think "Let's Go" is fun and functional.
I would like...Empower Yourself
It was hard to pick just one, all of them are great! Can 2 of these be combined? For example, "We open the door to your tomorrow"
It would be neat if it said "your future starts today"
It would be really awesome if we're able to have the taglines on Crafton Hills Merchandise too!
Let's Go! Is fantastic tagline for all and very inclusive!
Let's go/Adelante is brilliant. It's as if a student is saying it, and not the institution talking down to the student. It's short and simple, and as a Spanish-speaker, "Adelante" sounds so much more approachable and culturally-competent than everything else on this list. "Let's Go/Adelante" is a winner.
My future started with the first day of college
Second Choice - Let's Go!
They are all great choices. The meaning of it and the perception of it and what it means and looks like to the public is very important.
