

Academic Senate | Resolution S22.03 | Approved 5.18.2022

Granting The Title And Rank Of Professor Emeritus For Elizabeth “Liz” Langenfeld.

Whereas, Liz Langenfeld has dedicated 16 years of dynamic and heartfelt service to Crafton Hills College, going beyond meeting the needs of students by supplying varied modalities of instruction as an esteemed English instructor, ensuring that faculty and student voices were heard in the work of building learning communities, promoting student clubs and student centered events, supporting pathways and partnerships, and championing scholarship opportunities and the CHC Honors program.

Whereas, Liz always considered her students first and foremost, and fostered and nurtured their college experiences to help them achieve individual best success and capitalized on this in her work to help develop the Early Alert Program that led to our current Starfish, the development of the basic skills writing courses 976 Project where she worked as a liaison between part-time and full-time English and Reading faculty to help raise and maintain reading and writing standards, and participation in the EAP/Common Core Initiative to foster student college and career readiness.

Whereas, Liz has supported the growth of fellow faculty and our institution in vital and varied ways including serving as compassionate and steadfast English Department chair from 2010-2012, advocating for her peers and the voices of faculty in matriculation, curriculum, accreditation, educational policies, and dedicated service to Academic Senate.

Whereas, Liz earned an impressive number of educational degrees and certificates including bachelor degrees in English and Liberal Studies, a Master’s degree in English Composition, and certification in Reading and TESOL, and also earned certification in Motivation and Classroom Management from University of LaVerne, the ERWC (English Reading Writing Curriculum), as well as advanced Blackboard and Canvas certifications.

Whereas, Liz's outstanding commitment to our campus and community was recognized among students, faculty, and the community with awards such as the Foundation Award for an Innovative Developmental Course Project, Faculty Awarded Professor of the Year, and Student Awarded Professor of the Year.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Crafton Hills College Academic Senate grant Professor Liz Langenfeld the title of Professor Emeritus with all the rights and privileges associated therein.
