

Web Site: <https://www.redlands.edu/study/registrars-office/assessed-learning/associate-degree-for-transfer/>

Associate Degree for Transfer

Associate Degree for Transfer from a California Community College, if approved by the schools or the departments within the schools may satisfy the University of Redlands lower division general education requirements providing that: The school or department responsible for the affiliated Bachelor's degree has reviewed the TMC (Transfer Model Curriculum) and has approved acceptance of the specific ADT (Associate Degree for Transfer). The degree is granted with a cumulative GPA of "2.0" (or equivalent) or better. Additional coursework may be required. Applicants who do not meet all of these criteria will receive a course-by-course transfer credit evaluation to determine credit that will fulfill their general education requirements, and may be required to complete additional general education coursework.

The University of Redlands is currently accepting:

For the College of Arts and Sciences:

- Anthropology
- Biology
- Business Administration
- Chemistry
- Communication Science & Disorders
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Environmental Sciences
- History
- Mathematics
- Media and Visual Culture Studies
- Philosophy
- Race and Ethnic Studies
- Sociology and Anthropology
- Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies

For the School of Business:

- Business Administration

Please note: other ADTs are currently being reviewed by other departments. This page will be updated with further information.