Numbering of Courses

010 - 099	Multipurpose courses, but not generally applicable to a Baccalaureate degree.
100 - 299	Basic lower division courses applicable to the Associate degree. Courses may also apply to general education courses for a Baccalaureate degree.
300 - 399	Basic upper division courses for a Bachelor's degree. These courses typically build on foundational knowledge acquired in introductory 100 and 200 level courses. These courses often require more independent thinking and critical analysis, and may involve more complex problem-solving and research.
400 - 499	These courses represent the culmination of a Bachelor's degree program. They often require students to integrate and apply knowledge gained in earlier courses to real-world situations, or conduct research projects.
500 - 599	Continuing education courses in a Career Technical field. Courses are not applicable to the Associates degree.
900 - 999	Courses not applicable to the Associate degree.
